

Jamaica Plain, }
Nov 26th, 1863 }

Dear Sir - xx

I have received the kind invitation signed by yourself on behalf of the Ex. Com. of the Am. Anti-Slavery Society, inviting me to attend its Anniversary at Philadelphia.

It would give me great pleasure to accept ^{your} this invitation, which I feel honored in receiving. Unhappily, I can hardly hope to be able to visit Philadelphia at that time. But whether there or elsewhere, I shall in spirit be with you, & shall sympathize with your satisfaction & pride in feeling that the result for which you have labored so long & so earnestly is almost attained. That Slavery in America is virtually at an end, I cannot doubt. The great act of Emancipation, by the President under his power as Commander in chief, a power given him by the Constitution, is an act proceeding directly from the Constitution itself, & is therefore a part of the highest Law known in the Land. The Border States, excepted from the operation of that great edict, will themselves, following Missouri & Maryland, decree Emancipa-tion as a measure of public policy. Thus Slavery is like a tree taken up by the roots - the life not wholly out of it, the leaves perhaps yet green - but its roots are out of the ground, & it must die.

The Society over which you preside, has not only reason to congratulate itself that its labors have contributed largely to this great end; but that it has also given a historical proof that no evil however mighty, no ^{abuse} however deeply rooted can resist the power of truth & righteousness clearly uttered & perseveringly witnessed to. Every advocate of justice henceforth, however humble he may seem to be, will be encouraged by your success to believe that God by ^{him} will fulfill the prophecy which declares that — "he shall ^{smite} the earth by the rod of his ^{mouth}, & by the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked".

Jas. Freeman Clarke.

— So that by your fidelity you have not only helped to put out of the land this gigantic evil & sin, but have also contributed to destroy every other evil & sin which in all time to ^{come} shall be ^{be} brought to an end by the power of truth & justice.

Very truly & faithfully Yours,
James Freeman Clarke